

BBC Secrets - Transcript

Ep1: Go Back to...

Well, well, well, look who's taking us on a trip down memory lane with the classic "Go back to China?" line. Got to hand it to you for the creativity, but sorry to say, my time machine's on the fritz. No Back to the Future adventures for me, it seems! You know, I'm all about blending my Brit and Chinese sides, enjoying a good cuppa and some dumplings. But as much as I'd like to, I can't just magic myself back in time. Wish I could, though.

Ep2: Banana...

Ah, I see you've uncovered my secret. But let's clear up the colouring palette here. While my skin might not match the fruit aisle, I do have a British upbringing with a love for tea and queues, all while cherishing my Chinese heritage. So, rather than a banana, I'd say I'm more of a cuppa tea with a dash of soy sauce, a delightful mix of cultures that keeps life interesting.

Ep3: Food...

Ah, I see you've taken a stroll on the adventurous side of the culinary world! You know, "weird" is just another word for "exotic" or "unconventional," and that's exactly what makes Chinese cuisine so fascinating. From the spicy hotpot to the daringly delicious stinky tofu, there's a whole treasure trove of flavours waiting to be explored. But hey, I get it – not everyone's taste buds are up for a rollercoaster ride. But for those of us who are, it's like a flavour-packed journey around the world without ever leaving the table. So, what's your take? Ready to join the flavour fiesta or sticking to the classics?

Ep4: Are you...

Well, isn't that a fun riddle to unravel? I'm like a blend of the best of both worlds! Born and raised in good ol' Britain, but with a sprinkle of Chinese heritage to spice things up. So you could say I'm a proud product of both sides – a bit of a Brit-Chinese fusion, if you will. How about we grab a cuppa and chat more about it?